HENDRICKS READY WITH NEW REPORT

Conditions in New York to Be Made.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ALBANY, September 15.—Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks has practically completed the principal features of his final report on the leading insurance companies of the State. It will be a sort of second chapter to his first report, which, after its publication and consequent criticism, was declared by him to be in the nature of a preliminary report.

for which all the material has been se-lected and classified, will be whipped into shape within the next week or ten employes.

5. A statement of the financial methods practiced by the three companies and a description of the manner of bookkeeping prevailing in each.

6. A statement of the practice of each corporation in investing moneys controlled by the companies in stocks, bonds and other forms of se-stocks, bonds and other forms of se-curities, showing the character, carning capacity and actual value of each form of security.

7. The number of policies out-standing and annually written by standing and annuary writer by each company.

8. The amount of surplus of each, the manner in which it is acquired and disbursed and the power of cer-tain officials to use it for investment.

9. Schedule of loans and the mantain officials to use it for investment.

9. Schedule of loans and the manner of negotiating them.

10. Recommendations for changes in existing laws, covering every phase of the actual financial operations of the companies.

The superintendent will not in his report enter into any extensive discussion of the legal features of life insurance. He will leave those to the legislative committee, which is now pursuing its inquiry in New York. It was appointed, to make specific recommendations concerning changes in the laws, which confersuch extraordinary privileges on life insurance companies in the laws, which confersurance companies is their dealings with the policyholder. Since the committee hegan its work, however, Mr. Hendricks decided not to discuss the matters in his report, but to confine himself generally to a statement and description of the actual methods followed by the companies and the character and scope of their financial undertakings.

It has been the popular idea that he was in absolute control of the property by reason of owning a majority of the stock. This being the case, there is a possibility that Mr. Gould will see himself displaced and Mr. Ramsey instable.

himself displaces and stalled.

It is not known how far the deposition of Gould and the installation of Ramsey would affect the building of the Tidewater, which was undertaken by the Wabash. It is not known that there will be a change in policy, but there have been starp differences of opinion between Mr. Gould and Mr. Ramsey, and the opinion is expressed that some of the opinion is expressed that some of them grew out of the building of the Virginia road. "The Eternal City" varies from the book of the same name in two very marked instances. The heroine is made a pure woman, who is unjustly accused, instead of the wanton described in the literary effort, and instead of dying at the last curtain, she is permitted to live on, and the audience is assured that she and David Rosst have married and live happily thereafter. These very material changes were made bachistely for the American tour of the company, and have added to the attractiveness of the work, a pleasant taste being left in the mouths of those who witness the performance. of those who witness the performance The action of the play is given in five acts and cight scenes, showing Bonelli's palace, Rossl's apartments, Roma's studio hall in the Castle of St. Angelo, the gardens of the Vatican, ante-chamber of gardens of the Valuean, and the logis of St. Angelo. The action of the piece is also placed in the dim distant future, in order to avoid the accusation that personal reference of any kind is intended.

There has been some talk about the transference to some other city of the grand encampment of Knights of Pythias, scheduled to meet in New Orleans in September, 1906, but in response to a letter from Colonel Blakely, Dr. White wrote the following statement:

to a letter from Colonel Blakely, Dr. White wrote the following statement:

"With the work now being done in the city at the present time and projected for the future, I see no reason for changing the place of meeting, and I am strongly of the opinion, on entirely logical grounds, that New Orleans will be in better sanitury condition in 1906 than in any preceding year of her history, which has immediately followed an outbreak of yellow feeter."

The diamond festival gotten up by a great popular movement for the purpose of completing the fund for the feeter ampaign gives promise of being a great success. It is confidently predicted that the net proceeds will reach twenty thousand dollars.

Country reports were a little more encouraging, there being fewer cases and fewer deaths reported than for some films. Lake Providence is now des-tus of having the State take hold of the situation there, just as has been done at Talluish, and two more physicians will be sent there.

Mr. Spears, of East Grace Street, Aroused By Neice, Discovers Burglars in House.

Two negro burglars were discovered

Two negro burglars were discovered at 1:30 o'clock this morning in the residence of Mr. O. A. Spears, No. 2713 East Grace Street. Mr. Vivian Spears, asleep in the back parlor, which he uses as a bedroom, was awakened by the noise of the thieves and upon rushing into the hall discovered one of the men in the act of removing some clothing from the hall-rack. The burglar field down the stairway into the basement, where his confederate was at work. Mr. Spears pursued and fired four froms, but so far as is known without effect.

The negroes escaped in the durkness. In the area of the basement three pieces of silverware, a tea pot, a cream pitcher and a sugar dish were found. The min at work in the basement had evidently indid them there while he returned to get more, but in his subsequent hasty departure overlooked the pile pile. A blue serge suit and a franama hat, taken from the hall rack by the negro, discovered by Mr. Spears in the upper hall, were found in the aliey. No other articles were missing, the burglars evidently casting their entire store of plunder away in their zeal to escape the bullets.

Careful search by police officers failed to locate any of these bullets, leading to the suspicion that the men perhaps took them off as they went. There were, however, no bloodstains or other marks indicating that anybody had been hit. Entrance to the house was gained through a rear door.

EXCITEMENT OVER

Considerable excitement has been caused by the trial of two sorcerers in the town of Dulaburg, in "russia, says a special cable to the Washington Star from Berlin. These two self-styled professors of the black art extracted large sums of money from credulous persons by "raising the devil" with all manner of mysterious rites.

The client was brought into a dimity illuminated room, thick with the odors of ill-smelling herbs and sulphur. The sorcesses, druped in black and scarlet robes, glided in. As she entered her confederate disappeared and the coremony commenced. Long incantations were gone through, and a mystic appeal was intimately made to the inhabitants of the lower world. After a long silence the appeal was answered in a mignificant property of the closer of Darkness pronouncing the destiny of his client.

The sorcereas, whose name is Sibbles, and his satante majesty, who was christened Bonne, were shown to be impostors in a curious manner. Bonne was engaged to sing at a local concert. His performance was but half finished when an agitated member of the audience arose and denounced him as Satan, with the result that both impostors were finally arrested and placed on trial. They have been sentenced to three years' imprisonment each.

In Population.

New Jersey is taking a decennial State census, and the returns as made show a large increase in population of all its towns and cities, except Paterson.

Paterson, in many particulars the most enterprising, thrifty and progressive of New Jersey cities, has ceased to grow. Its expansion has been arrested, it has become too famous.

The Lanston Charges.

The Lanston Charges.

We have no doubt that the general public, in common with ourselves, will hall with satisfaction the finding of the Keep Commission and President Roosevelt's brief statement concerning it. The Commission finds that the most serious charges made against the Lanston Monotype Company are not sustained. At a time when much corruption is being uncovered in the public service and elsetime when much corruption is being incovered, in the public service and elsewhere, it is matter of general rejoicing that this corporation should have been able to maintain its integrity. That the Lanston Company did try, and not without success, to sell its machines to the Government; that it kept them prominently before the principal officers of the public printing establishments; that it extolled their merits in season and out of season; that it pushed them to the front with untiring persistency—these are charges which the company's officers may bear with equanimity. With such matters the public has no concern. But the real accusations, while including all of these, went much further. They were explicit and circumstantial. They included, not only certain technical irregularities in
